Clashes Erupt at Indo-Bhutan Border in Assam's Chirang Over Forest Land Dispute

GUWAHATI

Tension prevailed along the Indo-Bhutan border in Chirang district after fresh clashes broke out between security personnel and protesters over a forest land dispute, officials said on Friday.

The unrest centred around the Runikhata Forest Range Office, where local residents, including a large number of women, staged protests demanding the release of individuals allegedly detained for encroachment on reserved forest land.

According to sources, the situation turned volatile after protesters gheraoed the forest office overnight, leading to a confrontation with forest officials. During the unrest, a young woman was reportedly seriously injured following a baton charge, further intensifying public anger.

Fresh protests erupted on Friday as locals regrouped in the area. Security forces allegedly opened fire to disperse the crowd, escalating tensions. Protesters reportedly responded with stone-pelting, injuring several police personnel, including one who sustained a head injury.

Additional police forces were rushed to the spot to bring the situation under control. However, sporadic clashes continued, and tension remained high in the region.

Authorities said the situation is being closely monitored and efforts are underway to restore normalcy.

Study Flags Higher Suicide Risk Among Young Males in Assam Amid Teen Death

GUWAHATI

A recent study has highlighted a concerning trend of higher suicide risk among young males in Assam, drawing renewed attention following the alleged death by suicide of a teenager in Kamrup district on Thursday.

Titled "Exploring Suicide Trends in Jorhat, Assam: A Systematic Study," the research, conducted by Sangita Nath and Dipankar Thakuria of Jorhat Medical College and Hospital, points to significant vulnerability among young males linked to economic hardship and domestic conflicts.

The retrospective observational study analysed 281 confirmed suicide cases based on autopsy reports recorded at the institution between January and December 2023. Using statistical tools, including chi-square tests, the researchers examined socio-demographic patterns, methods and contributing factors.

Findings show that males accounted for 67.97 per cent of victims, with the 11-20 age group comprising the largest share at 30.6 per cent. Hanging emerged as the most common method, accounting for 75.44 per cent of cases.

Economic distress was identified as the leading contributing factor in 38.08 per cent of cases, followed by family conflicts at 28.47 per cent. The study also found statistically significant associations between the method of suicide and both age

Himanta's wife passport row: SC denies protection to Pawan Khera, directs him to Assam court

NEW DELHI

The Supreme Court on Friday refused to grant interim protection to Congress leader Pawan Khera in connection with a case related to allegations involving Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma's wife.

Khera had sought protection from coercive action till April 20, but the court declined his plea.

The bench instead directed him to approach the appropriate court in Assam and seek anticipatory bail.

A bench comprising Justices J K Maheshwari and Atul S Chandurkar on Friday took note of the submissions of senior advocate Abhishek Singhvi, appearing for Khera, and asked the Assam court that will hear the Congress leader's plea to not consider adverse remarks, if any, made by the top court and the Telangana High Court in the case.

The bench also asked the courts in Assam to take up Khera's plea expeditiously.

On April 15, the top court stayed a Telangana High Court order granting Khera one-week transit anticipatory bail in the case Solicitor General Tushar Meh-ta, appearing for the Assam government, had argued that it was a case of lack of territorial jurisdiction and no averment was there in Khera's plea as to why he had moved the Telangana High Court.

The case stems from an FIR registered at the Guwahati Crime Branch Police Station over allegations arising from Khera's April 5 press conference, in which he claimed that CM Sarma's wife, Riniki Bhuyan Sarma, held multiple passports and foreign properties that were not disclosed in the Chief Minister's election affidavit for the April 9 Assembly polls.

The Sarma family rejected the allegations as false and fabricated.

Earlier, on April 7, an Assam Police team accompanied by Delhi Police personnel had visited Khera's residence in connection with the case but did not find him. Officials had also claimed recovery of "incriminating" material during searches.

The FIR against Khera has been registered under provisions of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS), including sections relating to false statement in connection with an election, right of private defence of body and property, and cheating.

Partial Opening Likely for Jatinga-Harangajao NH Stretch by June Amid Project Delays

A 25-km stretch between Jatinga and Harangajao is likely to be partially opened to traffic by June as a two-lane road, offering limited relief to commuters despite delays in key infrastructure works, officials said.

According to the National Highways Authority of India (NHAI), the project has missed its original deadline of January 31, 2026, primarily due to pending construction of two railway overbridges. Project Director Yogesh Rao said that while full commissioning remains delayed, authorities are preparing to allow restricted vehicular movement on two lanes in the coming weeks.

Concerns have also emerged over the condition of a 1.8-km tunnel near Maibong along National Highway 27, where sections of the road surface have deteriorated, raising safety issues for motorists.

Rao said a detailed assessment of the tunnel has been assigned to RITES Limited, which will recommend a long-term solution. Temporary repairs are currently underway, though progress has been slowed by monsoon conditions. Officials added that malfunctioning lighting and CCTV systems inside the tunnel will be restored to improve visibility and monitoring.

In a separate development, action has been initiated against a contractor responsible for maintenance of the Manderdisa-Nirim Bungalow stretch. The firm, awarded a seven-year contract in 2023, has reportedly failed to undertake maintenance work for the past 10 months.

Authorities have suspended payments to the contractor and warned of blacklisting in case of continued non-compliance. Officials said a fresh tender may be floated within 15 days to appoint a new agency if the situation is not resolved.

21 Injured as Mob Torches Security Vehicles in Manipur's Bishnupur

IMPHAL

At least 21 civilians were injured after violence erupted in Bishnupur district when a mob attacked and set fire to security vehicles amid rising tensions over the identity of personnel travelling in civilian attire, police said. The incident occurred around 1.30 pm near Thimungei, where locals intercepted three private vehicles carrying armed security personnel in plain clothes.

According to officials, rumours regarding the identity and purpose of the occupants triggered suspicion among residents. As a large crowd gathered and blocked the convoy, the situation escalated when some individuals turned aggressive, assaulting the vehicles and setting two of them ablaze. Residents reportedly suspected that the occupants were Kuki militants moving in disguise. Additional police forces were rushed to the spot to restore order, leading to clashes between security personnel and protesters. Police said at least 21 protesters sustained minor injuries during the confrontation, while five individuals have been taken into custody in connection with the incident. Following the violence, authorities imposed prohibitory measures under Section 163 of the Bharatiya Nagarik Suraksha Sanhita from 5 pm onwards, restricting movement in the area until further orders.

Officials said the situation is being closely monitored and security has been tightened to prevent further escalation.

Tipra Motha Dominates TTAADC Polls, Wins 11 Seats; BJP Opens Account with One

AGARTALA

The Tipra Motha Party has emerged as the frontrunner in the elections to the Tripura Tribal Areas Autonomous District Council (TTAADC), winning 11 of the 28 seats and leading in several others, according to early counting trends.

The Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) has so far secured one seat and is ahead in a few constituencies, officials said.

Counting of votes began at 8 am across 17 designated centres under tight security. As per protocol, VVPAT slips were counted first, followed by Electronic Voting Machine (EVM) votes after a brief interval.

Polling for the TTAADC elections was held on April 12, recording a voter turnout of around 83 per cent. A total of 173 candidates were in the fray, representing major political parties including the BJP, CPI(M), Congress, Tipra

Motha, and IPFT.

According to the State Election Commission, Tipra Motha has won key constituencies including Ganganagar-Gandachhara, Takarjala-Jampuijala, Simna-Tamakari, Bodhjungnagar-Wakkinagar, Raima Valley, Demchahara-Kachuchhara, Ampinagar, Kathalia-Mirja-Rajapur, Maharani-Chelagang, Pekuarjala-Janmejjoy Nagar and Birchandranagar-Kalashi.

The party is also leading in multiple other seats, positioning itself strongly in the council.

The BJP has won the Machmara constituency in Unakoti district and is leading in additional seats, as per the latest available data. Officials said counting is still underway, and final results are expected later in the day. The outcome is likely to significantly shape the political landscape in the tribal council, a key autonomous body governing tribal areas in the state.

POST CEASEFIRE TALKS IN ISLAMABAD

Ceasefire talks facilitated by Pakistan ended after 21 hours of discussion with no agreement. US Vice President JD Vance stated in a press conference, 'We've had a number of substantive discussions with the Iranians, that's the good news. The bad news is that we have not reached an agreement and I think that's bad news for Iran much more than its bad news for USA.' He added, 'we just could not get to the situation where the Iranians would accept our terms.'

The Iranian side had their own version. The Iranian foreign minister Seyed Abbas Araghchi tweeted, 'In intensive talks at highest level in 47 years, Iran engaged with US in good faith to end war. But when just inches away from "Islamabad MoU", we encountered maximalism, shifting goals, and blockade.' With vast differences in the US's fifteen-point and Iran's 10-point agendas, expecting an agreement in one sitting was being naive.

Despite both sides needing an agreement, neither can be the first to blink. It would take additional discussions, toning down of demands by talks involving experts on both sides, before common ground can be reached and the top leadership meet again. Both nations have their own concerns.

A few subjects which Iran would never agree to include limiting ranges and numbers of its missiles, as it would open doors to unilateral attacks by Israel whenever it chooses, while leaving Iran defenceless. It could surrender its control over Hormuz, which is its trump card, in case its frozen funds are released. It needs them for reconstruction. It could also alter its stand on building nuclear weapons. It had accepted the same in Feb.

While the US holds the military stick, Iran holds the geographical advantage. Rising oil and gas prices, resulting in lowering of ratings of Trump in the US, forced him to consider a ceasefire. Added were damages to infrastructure of its allies in the Middle East, which could possibly result in the creation of a new security architecture in the region, without the US.

In addition, the US was left isolated in the war as not a single NATO ally was willing to participate, claiming the war was not theirs. All European nations had considered Israel PM Benjamin Netanyahu a war criminal for his actions in Gaza. Participating in the conflict implied fighting alongside a war criminal. The war also rendered Trump's much touted Board of Peace a failure with almost no funding.

The scenario has been made more complicated by Pakistan, which as talks began, moved approximately a division strength and a squadron of F 16 aircraft to Saudi Arabia as part of their mutual defence pact. Pak was given the option, either deploy forces as per the pact or repay loans. Its deployment resulted in Saudi Arabia and Qatar providing it an additional USD 5 Billion in deposits. It also signalled to Iran that in case it attacked Saudi Arabia, they could join the conflict. Any such action by Pak would not only open a new front but also end its role as a mediator.

Iran conveyed from the beginning that it was not the nation desperate for talks, however would come prepared. It placed riders on Lebanon being included in the ceasefire and release of its frozen assets prior to the talks. Its arrival schedule was announced much after the US delegation landed, though they were just neighbouring states. This also countered the US narrative that 'Tehran was desperate for an agreement.'

The Iranian delegation comprised of over 70 personnel, including experts in diplomatic, military and economic. They had the ability to take decisions without referring to Tehran. On the other hand, Vance mentioned, 'we were talking to the president consistently. I don't know how many times we talked to him, a half-dozen times, a dozen times over the past 21 hours.' The question being asked is whether Vance was sent to fail as the individual responsible for negotiations is Marc Rubio, who was watching a UFC match with Trump.

The stumbling block for peace remains Netanyahu. Despite prodding by the US, he refused to stop his attacks on Lebanon. He did offer a ceasefire to Lebanon, unwilling to link it to talks in Islamabad. It is also likely that he could once again recommence his attacks on Iran, breaking whatever little talks have achieved. He recently stated, 'The campaign is not over yet.' For Netanyahu continuing the conflict serves his personal interest. It keeps him in power as also away from his corruption cases. It appears that there is little that Trump can do to reign him in.

Threats of re-commencement of conflict are dominating the narrative flowing out of Washington. The US military build-up continues. While additional troops would open opportunities for decision-making for Trump, boots on the ground appear to be the last option. Most likely would be enhanced economic pressure, a blockade to prevent flow of oil, sanctions on nations trading with Iran as also encouraging global pressure on Iran to accede its control over Hormuz.

A naval blockade has commenced. For the blockade to be effective will take time. Iran's exports to Pakistan and Afghanistan and possibly other nations in the region avoid the sea route. China exploits both, land and sea routes. It is unlikely that US ships would board China bound tankers. Trump went as far as threatening China with additional tariffs if it provides Iran with weapons.

The last time Trump threatened sanctions on China, it was forced to backtrack as both economies are intertwined as also China could stop export of rare earth minerals to the US. These actions would impact the US far more than China. Nothing has changed, rather with Europe enhancing ties with China, the US could be further isolated.

An economic blockade may have some impact, but not enough to force Iran to surrender aspects which concern its security. The US's best solution is seeking another mediator and continuing talks. There has to be give and take prior to an agreement being reached. A single round of talks, after a stalemate in war, will never produce results. Patience and time are the need of the hour, which Iran displays but Trump appears to lack.

WAR AND GLOBAL ECONOMY

PROF M K BHAT

Iran-America war has rattled the geopolitical and geo economic atmosphere of the world. The closure of Strait of Homruz by Iran is a big push to world economy towards Global recession. The economies of global south, Europe and Asia have started to feel the heat and the other nations of the world are going to feel its intensity quite soon. Protests against the continuation of war have erupted in many countries including America. Maritime insurance premiums have got a steep rise. NATO is likely to breakdown, European nations are in no mood to carry forward the orders of America, where as China Russia are gearing to be in the race for super powers in the multipolar world as American hegemony is fast losing its ground. Its image has got a big dent with the lacklustre approach of president Trump. The efforts to secure the strait of Hormuz have started under the leadership of UK. In certain countries near lockdown has started and others will follow.

In Philippines, government offices are now open for four days a week and bureaucrats have to limit the use of air conditioning. In Thailand, public workers have been told to use stairs instead of elevators. India is the world's second-biggest importer of liquefied petroleum gas, which is used in cooking. Indian government is giving households priority over businesses as it allocates its limited supply and absorbing most of the price increases to keep costs low for poor families. LPG shortages have forced some eateries to shorten hours, close temporarily or drop dishes like curries and deep-fried snacks requiring a lot of energy. South Korea, dependent on energy imports, is restricting the use of cars by public employees and has reinstated fuel price caps that had been dropped in 1990s. Pakistan government has already raised state-controlled energy prices by 20 percent. Bangladesh government has closed all universities to conserve electricity, anticipating a power crisis.

Before analysing the impact of war on other countries it becomes important to analyse its impact on Arab countries and America as both comprise an indomitable part of world economy. Arab countries are a big source of world energy and America is the biggest economy of the world. The war is going to have a devastating impact on Arab countries, with millions expected to slide into poverty, according to the United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) report published on 31st March 2026, the gross domestic product (GDP) in the region was estimated to decline by approximately 3.7 to 6 percent after a month of war, equivalent to a contraction of $120bn to $194bn. Abdallah Al Dardari, UN assistant secretary-general and director of the UNDP Regional Bureau for Arab States, said that 3.7 million jobs will be lost and about four million more people in the region could fall below the poverty line, noting that the war had highlighted the "fragility in the Arab economy". America on the other hand is an oil exporter, so its energy companies stand to benefit from higher prices. And LNG prices are lower in the U.S. than elsewhere because its export liquefaction facilities already are running at 100 percent capacity. The U.S. can't export any more LNG than it already is, it is spending a whopping amount on war which has led to inflation in the country. As of March 2026, the conflict with Iran is costing the US roughly $1 billion to $2 billion per day, while Israel is spending approximately $3 billion per week. These expenses include significant military operations, high ammunition usage, and broader economic impacts, such as increased shipping and fuel costs.

The world at present has come to halt due to the disrupted energy production on the one hand and on the other, things got complicated by Iran's blocking of shipping traffic through the Strait of Hormuz, resurgence of Houthi attacks in the Red Sea. Iran hit Qatar's Ras Laffan natural gas terminal, which produces 20 percent of the world's liquefied natural gas. The March 18 strike wiped out 17 percent of Qatar's LNG export capacity and repairs will take up to five years, as per state-owned Qatar Energy. Gulf oil exporters like Kuwait and Iraq cut production because there was nowhere for their oil to go without access to the strait. The loss of 20 million barrels of oil a day delivered what the International Energy Agency calls the "largest supply disruption in the history of the global oil market." Historically, oil price shocks like this have led to global recessions.

One-fifth of the world's supply of both oil and liquefied natural gas (LNG) usually flows through the strait of Hormuz on its way to markets around the world. Besides energy, it has blocked merchandise goods that link major economies in the region to global supply chains. The aviation and logistics industries are severely impacted by fuel shortages. The energy crises is leading to inflation, closure of business units, shortage of fertilisers and unemployment due to industrial closure etc

The bigger jolt to the world economy has come with the disruption of fertilizer supply to food-producing countries of Africa and Asia. This may have a devastating impact on the global economy and human welfare than the oil price fluctuations. The food shortages can lead to widespread hunger and famine in the poorest parts of the developing world.

It is worthwhile to point out that Arab countries including Iran account for one third of urea and a quarter of ammonia exports. They are two key fertilisers used in agriculture. Producers in the region enjoy easy access to low-cost natural gas, the primary feedstock for nitrogen fertilizers. Up to 40 percent of world exports of nitrogen fertilizer pass through the Strait of Hormuz. Now that the passage is blocked, urea prices are up 50 percent since the war and ammonia 20 percent. Big agricultural producer Brazil is especially vulnerable because it gets 85 percent of its fertilizer from imports. Egypt, a big fertilizer producer itself, needs natural gas to make the stuff and production falters when it can't get enough. Higher fertilizer prices are likely to make food more expensive and farmers without its use will get lower yields. The low food supplies will be harsh for poor countries. The war has also disrupted world supplies of helium, a byproduct of natural gas and a key input in chipmaking, rockets and medical imaging. It will influence public health badly.

DIGITAL WAR OF WORDS

The South African laws are literally super racist, plain and simple.

It's not complicated: imagine if the law was called "White Empowerment", instead of "Black Empowerment"!

Lastly, Middle East is a big destination for migrant workers. Many economies in Asia and Africa are dependent on remittances sent back by migrants working in Saudi Arabia, Qatar, UAE, and the Gulf-as an important source of livelihoods for families remaining back home, as well as a source of foreign exchange for their economies.

The remittance-to-GDP ratio in both Nepal and the Philippines exceeds 25 percent. Qatar and other Persian Gulf countries are the most popular destinations for Nepali migrant workers. In turn, more than three-quarters of people living in Qatar and the UAE come from large developing countries like India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, and Egypt. Remittances to India from Arab countries comprise a major portion of total remittances to India.

Assam BJP's 50-member delegation arrives in West Bengal to campaign for polls

GUWAHATI

In view of the forthcoming Assembly Elections, a 50-member delegation of the Assam State BJP on Thursday arrived in West Bengal.

The elections, scheduled to be conducted in two phases on April 23 and April 29, will witness an extensive campaign by the Assam delegation across multiple constituencies in the state.

It is noteworthy that Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma has already reached West Bengal and is set to address three massive public rallies today in the Assembly constituencies of Cooch Behar, Kalchini, and Phansidewa.

Prominent leaders, including Cabinet Ministers Pijush Hazarika, Jayanta Mallabarua, Ranjeet Kumar Dass, Bimal Bora, Dr. Ranaj Pegu, Rupesh Gow-ala, Kripanath Mallah, Rajdeep Roy, Krishnendu Paul, Kaushik Rai, along with Member of Parliament Parimal Suklabaidya, several MLAs, and senior state leaders, have already stationed themselves across various constituencies to spearhead the campaign.

In the broader context of Assembly elections being conducted across four states and one Union Territory in the country, the West Bengal elections are being regarded as highly significant for the BJP.

Notably, several national and regional media outlets have reflected a clear public inclination in favour of the NDA in Assam, while simultaneously indicating a rising momentum and favourable prospects for the BJP in West Bengal.

A three-day Special Session of Parliament has commenced from April 16. During this session, three landmark legislations are set to be introduced, including "One Nation, One Election", nationwide delimitation of constituencies, and reservation of seats for women in Parliament and State Assemblies under the "Nari Shakti Vandan Act".

Through an official statement issued to the media, party spokesperson Pranjal Kalita informed that the "One Nation, One Election" Bill has already been passed in the Lok Sabha with 207 votes.

The decision of the Central Government to ensure one-third, i.e., 33% reservation for women in Parliament and State Assemblies through constitutional amendment, thereby empowering women and accelerating the march of Nari Shakti, has been warmly welcomed by the State BJP President and Member of Parliament from the Darrang-Udalguri constituency, Dilip Saikia.

A dignified and meaningful interaction was held today at the Assam State BJP Headquarters, Atal Bihari Vajpayee Bhawan, in the presence of Mayumi Tsubakimoto, First Secretary of the Japan Consulate, and Krishna Maneesh Choudhary, Senior Assistant (Political Affairs).

The discussion encompassed several vital areas concerning Indo-Japan relations, including Assam's potential from Japan's perspective, avenues of investment and trade, women empowerment, youth development, the ideological framework of the BJP, and the various welfare initiatives undertaken by the Government of Assam.

It is worth mentioning that the programme was attended by State Vice-President Ratna Singh, Convener of the BJP State Media Department Rupam Goswami, along with several spokespersons, media panellists, and co-convenors of the media department.

Indian Army conducts joint operation, destroys 10 bunkers in Jalenbung Hills & Thoyee Heights

IMPHAL

In continuation of ongoing operations astride national highway (NH)-202, the security forces led by Red Shield Division launched coordinated Joint Area Domination Patrols again in the general areas of Jalenbung hills and Thoyee Heights, aimed at maintaining security and preventing re-establishment of hostile infrastructure.

The operation commenced with two joint columns comprising teams from the Indian Army, CAPF and Manipur Police carrying out the operation on both sides of the highway, respectively, an official release said.

In the Jalenbung Hills, a systematic sweep resulted in the identification and subsequent destruction of multiple bunkers that had previously been dismantled but were found to be re-established. A total of five such bunkers were destroyed in the area.

Simultaneously, in Thoyee Heights, a series of bunkers along the Mahadev Hills and Thoyee Heights were identified. Five repaired bunkers that had earlier been dismantled were destroyed again.

Overall, a total of ten bunkers were destroyed during the coordinated operation.

The operation underscores the continued synergised resolve of the security forces to deny any attempts at re-establishment of hostile firing positions, while ensuring peace and stability in the region through sustained and coordinated efforts.

Rs 7 Crore Drug Haul in Mizoram; Eight Arrested in Week-Long Crackdown

AIZAWL

In a major anti-narcotics drive, the Mizoram Police has seized heroin and methamphetamine valued at over Rs 7 crore across multiple operations conducted in two districts over the past week, officials said on Thursday.

The operations, carried out between April 10 and 16, led to the arrest of eight individuals, including four Myanmar nationals, pointing to the involvement of cross-border trafficking networks. In the latest operation, a police team in Khawzawl district intercepted a scooter at Neihdawn junction early Thursday. A 25-year-old man from Lunglei was found carrying 104 grams of heroin concealed in soap cases inside his bag. The contraband is estimated to be worth around Rs 20.8 lakh. The largest seizure was reported from Champhai district on April 13, where police recovered 8 kg of methamphetamine valued at approximately Rs 6.4 crore from three individuals, including two Myanmar nationals. On the same day, another operation along the Zokhawthar road led to the recovery of 71 grams of heroin from a vehicle driven by a Myanmar national, with the drugs valued at over Rs 14 lakh.

Earlier, security personnel at Khankawn check gate intercepted a vehicle and seized 72 grams of heroin hidden in luggage. In a separate incident, 60 grams of heroin was recovered from a motorcyclist at Chalbawia junction.

In another case on April 10, police at Zokhawthar, near the Indo-Myanmar border, seized 54 grams of heroin from a passenger vehicle. Acting on follow-up leads, a 38-year-old Myanmar woman suspected to be part of the distribution network was later arrested in Aizawl. Officials said the series of successful operations reflects intensified enforcement efforts to dismantle organised drug trafficking networks operating along the international border. Further investigations are underway to trace and apprehend other members of the syndicate.

CM Khemchand Singh Launches Ukhrul Outreach Drive, Villagers Raise Water and Road Concerns

Yumnam Khemchand Singh on Friday commenced a road journey to Ukhrul district as part of an outreach initiative aimed at strengthening coordination with remote communities and addressing pressing infrastructure gaps.

The Chief Minister's first stop was Shangkai village along the Imphal-Ukhrul road, where he interacted with local residents. During the visit, Kuki women highlighted the acute shortage of reliable drinking water and sought urgent government intervention. Responding to their concerns, Singh assured that the matter would be taken up on priority upon his return to Imphal.

Accompanied by MLAs and senior officials, the Chief Minister later visited Thawai Kuki village, where a large gathering of villagers flagged multiple issues, including poor road connectivity, inadequate water supply, and limited access to healthcare facilities. Singh reiterated the government's commitment to addressing these challenges, stating that the concerns raised would be prioritised.

In a statement shared on social media, the Chief Minister said the government remains focused on ensuring the delivery of essential services across all regions of the state, emphasising equitable development for rural and remote areas.

The Ukhrul outreach follows similar visits to Jiribam and Senapati district, undertaken via key national highways as part of a broader grassroots engagement programme.

Officials said Singh is scheduled to halt at Ramva to review progress on an ongoing National Highway project before proceeding further. He is also expected to hold meetings with Tangkhul community leaders and district officials, including the Deputy Commissioner and Superintendent of Police, at the DRDA conference hall in Ukhrul.

The visit will include an inspection of a rigid pavement construction project and the inauguration of the Shirui Heritage Project at Shirui village. The Chief Minister and his team are expected to conclude the tour following a lunch meeting at Shirui.

AIUDF Signals Post-Poll Support to Anti-BJP Alliance in Assam

GUWAHATI

The All India United Democratic Front (AIUDF) has indicated its willingness to back any opposition coalition aiming to form the next government in Assam, hinting at a possible political realignment after the 2026 Assembly elections.

AIUDF MLA Rafiqul Islam on Friday said the party would extend "full support" to an opposition front seeking to challenge the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) in the state. Addressing reporters, Islam asserted that voters have grown disillusioned with the ruling party and are seeking change.

Citing the record 85.38 per cent voter turnout in the April 9 polls—the highest in Assam's electoral history—Islam described the surge as a sign of anti-incumbency. "People have rejected the BJP government," he claimed. He further stated that the AIUDF expects to secure more than 15 seats in the 126-member Assembly and is prepared to make "sacrifices" if required to facilitate the formation of a non-BJP government.

Polling data showed strong participation across demographics, with women recording a turnout of 85.96 per cent compared to 84.80 per cent among men, while third-gender participation stood at 36.84 per cent. Islam argued that the high turnout reflects a shift in public sentiment in favour of opposition forces, although final outcomes remain awaited.

The BJP, however, has offered a contrasting interpretation, terming the high turnout as a reaffirmation of public faith in democratic processes and its governance record. Party leaders highlighted enthusiastic participation by young voters as indicative of growing support for development and stability under the National Democratic Alliance (NDA). Political observers note that AIUDF's outreach could prove significant in shaping post-poll equations, particularly in a closely contested Assembly where no single party was projected to secure a clear majority in pre-election assessments. Opposition unity efforts are expected to intensify in the coming days as stakeholders explore possibilities of forming a coalition government in Assam.

Nagaland Sets Up Doyang Wildlife Division in Wokha to Curb Human-Elephant Conflict

WOKHA

The Department of Environment, Forest and Climate Change, Nagaland has inaugurated the Doyang Wildlife Division along with a dedicated control room to address the rising incidents of human-elephant conflict (HEC) in the region.

The initiative was formally launched at the Doyang Wildlife Division Office in Forest Colony, Wokha, in the presence of Forest, Environment and Climate Change Minister C L John, who attended the programme as chief guest.

In his address, John emphasised the need to translate environmental awareness into tangible action, underlining the importance of maintaining a balance between forests, wildlife and human habitation for a sustainable future. He noted that while traditional reverence for nature remains strong among Nagas, broader awareness and active participation in conservation efforts have only recently begun to expand.

Addressing the growing challenge of human-elephant conflict, the minister called for coexistence and urged communities to work collaboratively in mitigating wildlife-related damage. He assured that the government is putting mechanisms in place for faster response and effective grievance redressal.

Principal Chief Conservator of Forests and Head of Forest Force Vedpal Singh said the new division was created in response to the increasing frequency of HEC incidents in Wokha. He described the establishment of the division and control room as a significant step towards enabling prompt intervention and enhancing support for affected citizens.

Principal Secretary Y. Kikhe-to Sema highlighted the need for sustained awareness campaigns and long-term planning, adding that efforts are underway to secure externally aided projects to tackle the issue in a comprehensive manner. The Doyang Wildlife Division, carved out of the former Doyang Plantation Division, will have jurisdiction over forest areas in Wokha, Mokokchung and Zunhebo districts. Officials said the new setup is expected to strengthen conservation measures while providing a focused institutional mechanism to manage human-wildlife conflict in the region.

Punjab Seeks Continued Detention of MP Amritpal Singh in Assam; HC Upholds NSA Order

CHANDIGARH

The Punjab government has approached the Punjab and Haryana High Court seeking permission to continue the custody of Khadoor Sahib MP Amritpal Singh at Dibrugarh Central Jail even after his detention under the National Security Act (NSA) expires on April 22.

Appearing before a bench led by Chief Justice Sheel Nagu, the state submitted that it intends to re-arrest Singh immediately after the expiry of his preventive detention, citing intelligence inputs and concerns over law and order. The matter is scheduled for further hearing on Friday. The state's counsel argued that continued confinement outside Punjab is necessary in view of potential security threats. It also sought the court's nod to interrogate Singh at a designated facility in Dibrugarh and to conduct subsequent judicial proceedings, including remand and filing of chargesheets, through video conferencing.

Representing Singh, advocate Iman Singh Khara confirmed that the plea seeks to extend his incarceration in Assam. The petition, filed by the Amritsar Rural Superintendent of Police, contends that the MP's alleged activities pose a risk to public order and state security. It further noted that the Assam government has consented to his continued detention under provisions of the Transfer of Prisoners Act.

In a related development, the High Court on Thursday dismissed Singh's challenge to his third detention order under the NSA. The division bench of Chief Justice Nagu and Justice Sanjiv Berry held that the preventive detention order did not warrant judicial interference, observing that it was "clear as daylight".

The court found no illegality in the detention order issued by the Amritsar district magistrate in April 2025, which cited alleged links with anti-national elements, association with gangsters, and support for separatist activities.

Singh, chief of the group Waris Punjab De, has been in custody since April 2023 following a month-long manhunt after the Ajnala police station incident, where he and his allegedly forced entry into the premises and clashed with police. He later contested the 2024 Lok Sabha elections as an Independent candidate and won from Khadoor Sahib.

With his current NSA detention set to lapse on April 22, the Punjab government has indicated it may proceed with a fresh arrest to ensure his continued custody.

Opposition should not spread rumours on delimitation: Kiren Rijiju

NEW DELHI

Union Parliamentary Affairs Minister Kiren Rijiju on Thursday said the opposition should not spread rumours regarding the proposed delimitation bill and should not "misinterpret or misconstrue" its objective.

"I have one appeal to make to the opposition parties. Please don't spread rumours on delimitation. On the pretext of delimitation, don't oppose the women's reservation. I have a very specific appeal to all the opposition parties not to spread rumours and mislead the people of South India, and also not to misinterpret or misconstrue the good objective by raising some other issues. Don't make some excuse to defeat the women's reservation," Rijiju told reporters.

"I am very happy that today is a historic day. This bill is a historic piece of legislation that will forever be remembered as the Parliament of India has taken this historic decision to provide 33% reservation for women in the Lok Sabha and in the assemblies of different states.

I am very confident that all the parties are going to support and to ensure that the long-pending women's reservation doesn't get defeated," he added.

The Constitutional Amendment Bill is linked to a population-based delimitation exercise using 2011 Census data, which is expected to alter constituency boundaries and the composition of Lok Sabha and state assemblies.

Opposition parties have raised concerns over the delimitation proposal, with criticism intensifying after the Centre cleared draft amendment bills to operationalise the Nari Shakti Vandan Adhiniyam, 2023. They have also objected to the timing of the special Parliament session.

The government has said it plans to implement women's reservation ahead of the 2029 General Elections through amendments to the 2023 Act and a constitutional amendment that separates the delimitation exercise from the 2027 census.

The proposal also envisages increasing the total strength of Parliament to 850 seats, including 815 for states and 35 for Union Territories, from the current 543 Lok Sabha seats.

The Centre has called a special Parliament session from April 16 to 18.

NEW DELHI

Union ministers Arjun Ram Meghwal and Amit Shah on Thursday moved to introduce three bills in the Lok Sabha to amend the women's quota law and set up a delimitation commission, as opposition termed the proposed legislations "anti-constitutional" and an "attack on the Indian federal structure."

Lok Sabha cleared the introduction of the Delimitation Bill (131st Constitutional Amendment) Bill, 2026 — to expand its strength from 543 to 850

— after a 207-126 vote, and introduced a bill to amend the women's quota law (106th Amendment Act, 2023) following a 251-185 vote. Congress MP KC Venugopal questioned why proposed changes in the women's quota law were not incorporated when it was earlier passed by Parliament.

"Bills to tweak the women's quota law and set up a delimitation panel are anti-constitutional," he said. "This bill is a fundamental attack on the Indian federal structure. What exactly is the intention of this bill? The parliament passed the bill in both Lok Sabha and Rajya Sabha, ensuring 33% reservation of women," Venugopal added.

In a swift response, Union Home Minister Amit Shah hit back, claiming that Venugopal could not question the merits of the Bills at the stage of introduction and was limited only to raising technical objections.

Shah further said that the government would give a "strong reply" to the Opposition during the debate.

Meanwhile, Samajwadi Party's Akhilesh Yadav questioned the rush to introduce the bills. "We are in favour... but why do you not want a Census to be conducted?" he asked, while party MP Dharmendra Yadav questioned the move to delink delimitation from the Census and called for women from minority communities and backward classes to be accommodated in the quota for Parliament.

Shah hit back, saying the Census 2027 is on and the Centre has also decided to go for caste enumeration, but reservation based on religion is "unconstitutional."

Opposing the bills introduced by the Centre, DMK's TR Bалу said in the Lok Sabha, "We favour the 2023 women's quota law, but the present bill is aimed at delimitation." DMK members were dressed in black clothes in LS to protest amendments to women reservation law.

Earlier in the day, Tamil Nadu Chief Minister MK Stalin hoisted a black flag and burnt a copy of the proposed Delimitation Bill, intensifying his protest against the Centre's move to table the legislation in Parliament.

According to the draft Constitution amendment bill, Lok Sabha seats will be increased to a maximum of 850 from the current 543 to "operationalise" the women's reservation law before the 2029 parliamentary polls, following a delimitation exercise based on the 2011 Census.

Seats will also be increased in state and Union territory assemblies to accommodate 33 per cent reservation for women. The seats reserved for women in the Lok Sabha and legislative assemblies "shall be allotted by rotation to different constituencies in a state or Union territory", the draft bill circulated among Lok Sabha members said.

Several opposition parties on Wednesday decided to unitedly vote against the delimitation provisions in the Constitution amendment bill in Parliament, while asserting that they are not against reservation for women in legislative bodies.

Myanmar junta commutes all death sentences, frees over 4,000 prisoners in new amnesty

YANGON

Myanmar's leader commuted all death sentences in a blanket order on Friday, one of his first official acts since the 2021 coup leader was installed as the country's civilian president.

The military junta led by Min Aung Hlaing snatched power in Myanmar in a February 2021 putsch and resumed executions after decades of not carrying them out, targeting dissidents opposed to his coup, rights group said.

By the following year, more than 130 people had been sentenced to death, according to the United Nations, however, definitive figures are hard to track in the country's opaque, closed-door court system.

After five years ruling as armed forces chief, Min Aung Hlaing was installed last Friday as president in a transition democracy watchdogs have described as a civilian rebranding of military rule.

The shift has been accompanied by rollbacks of some of the junta's post-coup crackdown measures — steps the leadership tout as reconciliation, but which critics describe as cosmetic measures to aid the rebranding effort.

A communique on behalf of Min Aung Hlaing said "those serving death sentences shall have their sentences commuted to life imprisonment", without naming specific prisoners.

An amnesty in May 2023 lifted the death sentences of 38 individual prisoners, but was not a blanket measure.

Friday's act was announced as part of a broader amnesty to mark Myanmar's Thingyan new year, one of the country's many public holidays when forgiveness orders are regularly announced.

More than 4,300 prisoners were slated for release, according to a statement, alongside 179 foreign nationals, while all sentences under 40 years were slashed by one-sixth.

Outside the barbed-wire boundary of Yangon's Insein prison, gaggles of families waited in the sweltering heat to learn whether their imprisoned relatives would be among the pardoned.

"My brother has been imprisoned for a political case," said 38-year-old Aung Htet Naing. "I am hoping that he might be included in today's release."

"We cannot expect much because he wasn't included in previous pardons." Less than 14 percent of those released in successive rounds of amnesties since the coup were political prisoners, think tank the Institute for Strategy and Policy Myanmar said late last year.

More than 30,000 people have been detained for political reasons since the coup, according to the Assistance Association for Political Prisoners.

Myanmar's most famous political prisoner Aung San Suu Kyi remains detained incommunicado, serving a 27-year sentence which rights groups have denounced as politically motivated.

Min Aung Hlaing swept aside the Nobel Peace Prize laureate's massively popular government in 2021, making allegations it had taken power by means of massive voter fraud in polls the previous year. Election monitors said there was no evidence of that and the military — which has ruled Myanmar for most of its history — wrestled back power as it grew anxious about its waning influence after her landslide victory.

The coup triggered an ongoing civil war, pitching pro-democracy guerrillas and long-active ethnic minority armies against the military.

A junta-organised election concluded in January, reversing the result of the 2020 poll by delivering a walkover win for pro-military parties.

Suu Kyi's National League for Democracy party was dissolved and barred from running, while protest or criticism of the poll was made a punishable offence and voting did not take place in rebel-held areas.

Lawmakers installed in the election voted overwhelmingly for Min Aung Hlaing to serve as their president, and he was sworn into office to start his five-year term last week.

Turkey hosts Pakistan, Saudi, Egypt ministers at Antalya forum amid West Asia war diplomacy push

ANTALYA

Turkey hosts a high-stakes forum Friday bringing together the foreign ministers of Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Egypt, as Islamabad pushes diplomatic efforts to end the Middle East war.

Pakistan's powerful army chief met senior negotiators in Tehran on Thursday as Washington and Iran considered a fresh round of talks to end the six-week war.

President Recep Tayyip Erdogan will address the three-day Antalya Diplomacy Forum when it opens on Friday in the Mediterranean holiday resort of Antalya.

The foreign ministers of Turkey, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Egypt are to meet on the sidelines of the forum, with the war and the blockade of the crucial Strait of Hormuz expected to dominate. The timing of the meeting has not yet been announced.

Pakistan has positioned itself as a key mediator in regional diplomacy having hosted rare talks between Iran and the United States last weekend, which ended inconclusively.

"We are making the necessary efforts to reduce tensions, extend the ceasefire, and continue the negotiations," Erdogan said in an address to his ruling AKP party in parliament this week.

"Negotiations cannot take place with clenched fists. Weapons must not be allowed to speak again instead of words. The window of opportunity opened by the ceasefire must be fully utilised."

The White House has said further talks with Iran would "very likely" be in Islamabad, where Vice President JD Vance led the US delegation in the last round of negotiations.

Pakistani Prime Minister Shehbaz Sharif, who met Qatar's ruler in Doha on Thursday as part of a regional tour, will also join the forum and meet Erdogan on its margins, as Islamabad pushes for a US-Iran second round.

"We will continue to provide all the support we can to ensure that the ongoing temporary ceasefire turns into a permanent one," a Turkish defence ministry source said on Thursday.

"We hope that this war — whose effects are being felt increasingly not only regionally but also globally — will come to an end as soon as possible, and that the parties will act constructively in the ongoing negotiation process," the source said.

Turkey, while a vocal critic of Israel, has joined diplomatic efforts with Egypt and Pakistan to help reach a ceasefire in the conflict.

Ankara has said the Middle East ceasefire should include Lebanon which is facing Israeli attacks.

Foreign Minister Hakan Fidan said on Monday also the strategic Strait of Hormuz should be reopened "as soon as possible" while warning that its status would remain a key point of contention.

He described the waterway as an "international free passage zone", adding that any disruption to freedom of navigation is not something parties want to see.

More than 150 countries are expected to take part in the Antalya gathering, including more than 20 heads of state and government.

Among the participants are Syrian President Ahmed al-Sharaa and Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov.

TRONGLAOBI TRAGEDY: A Call for Restraint, Responsibility, and Reflection

NIL KONSAM

The bomb blast at Tronglaobi Awang Leikai on 7 April 2026 took away two tender and innocent souls in their sleep — five year old Oinam Tomthin and his five month old sister Oinam Yaisana — not long after young Tomthin had said to his mother, “Mom, I love you.” Their mother, Oinam Binita, a nurse posted in Guwahati who was on maternity leave, was critically injured in the attack. The family had gathered at their ancestral home for the weaning ceremony of young Yaisana. Their father, Oinam Mangalgamba, a BSF jawan, had cut short his leave to return to duty in Bihar. Such moments demand not only empathy, but also clarity of thought and responsibility in action.

followed raises serious concerns. Rumours, fear, anger, and apparent communication gaps between the public and the administration have further aggravated the already volatile environment. It is deeply unfortunate that additional innocent lives were lost and others injured in the aftermath of uncoordinated and uncontrolled protests — including when a mob attempted to storm a nearby CRPF camp, leading to firing by security personnel. Even when unintended, such overreactions can inflict irreversible damage on the very fabric of our foundational constitutional principles.

Responding to violence with more violence, or attempting to bypass constitutional institutions, the government, and established norms, risks compounding the such an attack, a projectile striking a civilian home in the dead of night, suggests gaps, whether in local intelligence gathering, inter-agency coordination, preventive surveillance, or response preparedness. These must be acknowledged with honesty and addressed with urgency. Strengthening ground level intelligence, improving coordination between agencies, and ensuring timely, actionable responses are essential — not as an exercise in blame, but as a commitment to preventing recurrence.

Equally concerning has been the emergence of generalised public criticism directed at security forces. While accountability remains fundamental in any democratic system, it must be exercised with care and responsibility. Generalised attacks, particularly in moments of crisis, risk undermining morale, eroding trust, and diverting attention from constructive solutions. A mature society must distinguish between legitimate scrutiny and reactionary condemnation.

Moreover, the cycle of protests, disruptions, and sporadic violence that often follows such incidents, whether motivated or otherwise, has had disproportionate consequences on the most vulnerable sections of society. Daily wage earners lose their livelihoods, school going children face interruptions in education, and the sick and elderly struggle to access essential services. These silent sufferings rarely dominate public discourse, yet they significantly deepen the humanitarian cost of instability.

Community leaders, legislators, and the local administration, including law enforcement agencies, must urgently establish protocol and process driven mechanisms to educate the public, counter rumours, bridge communication gaps, and accelerate the return to normalcy.

Manipur today finds itself in a deeply complex situation — shaped by accumulated grievances, mistrust, and recurring cycles of violence. The pain is real and must be acknowledged with sincerity. Yet, it is equally important to recognise a difficult truth: lasting peace cannot be imposed solely from outside. Governments and institutions must act decisively, fairly, and transparently. But durable normalcy ultimately depends on collective restraint, introspection, and a shared willingness among people to prioritise coexistence over conflict.

The tragedy in Tronglaobi must not become just another episode in a continuing cycle. It should instead serve as a moment of pause — a point from which society chooses responsibility over reaction, discipline over disorder, and dialogue over disruption. The path forward is undoubtedly difficult, but it remains possible if approached with maturity, empathy, and a clear sense of shared responsibility.

In the immediate aftermath, anguish and anger were both natural and justified. However, what tragedy. These reactions, however emotionally driven, tend to deepen divisions and make an already fragile situation far more complex rather than contribute to resolution.

At the same time, this incident calls for a calm but rigorous examination of security and intelligence systems. The very occurrence of
